What are cookies?

A cookie is a small text file that a website saves on your computer or mobile device when you visit the site.

There are several categories of cookies and similar technologies based on their purpose:

- Technically necessary cookies. These are cookies that are required for the operation of a site. They include, for example, cookies that enable you to log into secure areas, use a shopping cart or make use of e-billing services.
- Analytical/performance cookies. These cookies are used to understand how visitors interact with a website. They can help to improve the way a site works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily.
- Functional cookies. These cookies are used to recognize you when you return to a site. This enables its owners to personalize the content for you, greet you by name and remember your preferences (for example, your choice of language or region).
- Targeting/advertisement cookies. These cookies record your visit to a site, the pages you have visited and the links you have followed. This information is used to make a site and an advertising displayed on it more relevant to your interests.
